Seminar Title: Work/Life Balance and Goal Setting

STOP the World I want to get off! As our work lives become more intense many people find themselves at work over scheduled, over committed and under resourced.

Successful organizations realize more than ever that balanced individuals make better employees, co workers, supervisors, managers and future leaders.

This seminar is full of practical ideas to help employees lead more balanced lives which in turn helps them be more effective in the workplace; more focused on the organization's highest priorities and even better equipped to make their best contribution in the workplace.

Also covered in this seminar is how to set and achieve worthwhile goals and presents what we can learn from the work of Ornstein and Sperry, as Nobel Prize Winners about how the brain works and what we can learn from others that have achieved amazing things in the world of work using the Expectancy Theory.

Leading organizations know that the ability to set and achieve goals, aligned with the purpose of the organization is one of the keys to help unleash the potential of their employees.
